It enables individuals to recognize their strengths, interests, and potential career trajectories, empowering them to make well-informed decisions about their future. Additionally, career guidance offers valuable support in establishing attainable goals and honing the requisite skills to excel in their chosen field. Lahanti recognizes the specific needs of individuals from non-educational backgrounds and aims to provide necessary assistance in guiding them toward suitable career choices that can uplift their families and communities.

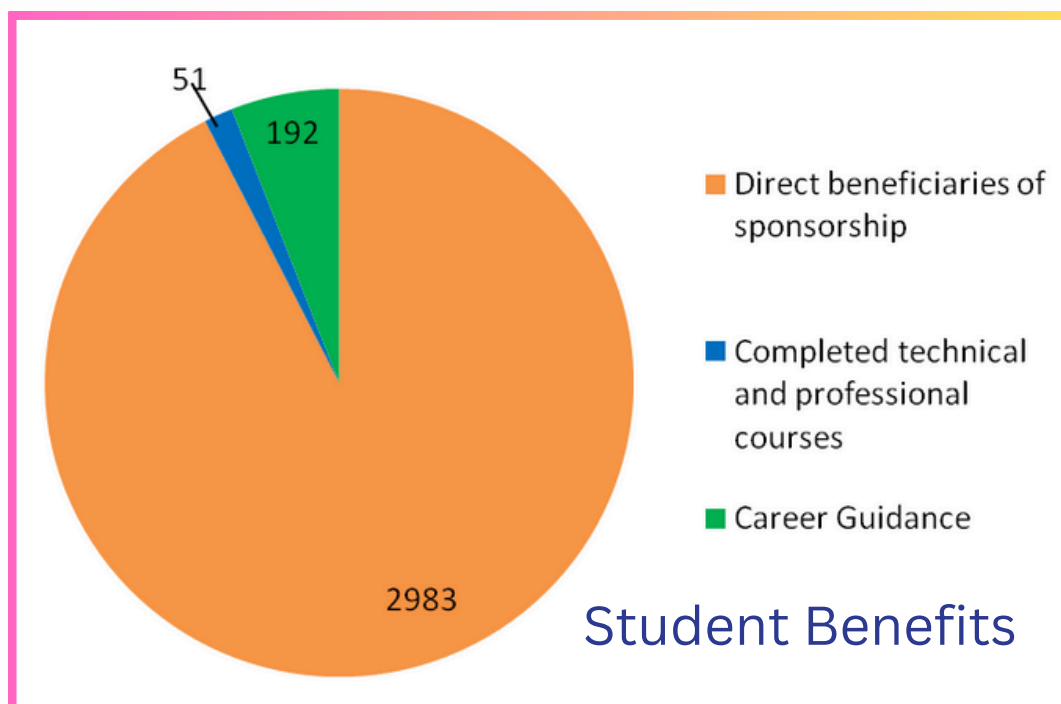

Summer Camp

Lahanti diligently promotes the health and happiness of children by organizing, engaging and enriching summer camps for its beneficiaries. This initiative focuses on fostering a strong bond between a child and their mother through a variety of activities designed to encourage their development and create lasting memories.

Highlights

Child Protection

Lahanti is actively preventing child trafficking and abuse in Dumka district's rural areas. They conduct awareness campaigns under Safe village Programme, at village and school level, to educate about relevant laws, RTE, and the dangers of child marriage. Local vigilance committees, with members like Gram Mitras and community leaders, are formed in each village. Villagers are informed about helpline numbers like 1800 419 8588 and 1098 for assistance.

Lahanti conducts regular meetings with parents and teachers to ensure children's safety and maintain continuous awareness. Adolescent girls are educated about their rights and health in these meetings to protect them from human trafficking and promote a healthy lifestyle. Their efforts have significantly reduced migration rates among children aged 13-18. Children are now aware of good touch and bad touch, leading to fewer interactions with strangers. Parental awareness of the Right to Education has increased, resulting in a notable rise in children's enrollment rates.

Nayadih Village Takes Action Against Child Trafficking: Awareness Campaign Leads to School Re-enrollment for Girls

Village – Nayadih is situated in Panchayat –, Block – Kathikund, District – Dumka, Jharkhand. This village is at a distance of 30 kilometers from the district office. People of two communities live in this village – Santhal and Muslim. There are two hamlets in this village in which 150 families reside. The estimated population of this village is around 500.

During the SVP campaign run by Lahanti in collaboration with My Choice Foundation in Nayadih village, villagers were made aware about child trafficking. During the awareness campaign they were told that many girls leave school and go out in search of work at an early age. During this time, they get trapped in the clutches of a broker and become victims of child trafficking. To protect girls from child trafficking, they should be enrolled in school. This information brought awareness among the people and they told that some girls from their village have also stopped going to school and they too can become victims of child trafficking. For this reason, those girls will be enrolled in school as soon as possible.

This awareness campaign had a positive impact that the villagers got the school drop out girls enrolled in the school. Expressing happiness over this, Nodal Teacher Arun Kumar Mandal said that SVP campaign is a very good initiative of Lahanti to make the villagers aware about child related issues. People in rural areas become victims of various types of problems due to lack of information and they do not know how to prevent them. Through this type of campaign, people become aware of their rights, which lead to the development of society.

Local Democracy

The primary objective of Lahanti is to ensure active participation in village self-governance. To achieve this goal, a variety of initiatives are being organized, including meetings, awareness programs, and street plays. These efforts aim to engage and educate the community, empowering them to participate effectively in the Gram Sabha and contribute to the development of their village. Lahanti strives to make every citizen aware of their responsibilities and rights, thereby strengthening the local self-governance system. By fostering a sense of ownership and accountability, Lahanti seeks to create a more inclusive and democratic environment where every individual has a voice in the decision-making process that shapes their community's future.

Strengthening Gram Sabha

Lahanti is committed to fostering community engagement through the Gram Sabha platform, central to local governance and village development. The organization has made significant strides in 111 villages of the Kathikund block, raising awareness about the Gram Sabha's responsibilities and importance.

Initially, villagers did not fully understand the Gram Sabha's significance. However, through persistent efforts, including meetings, awareness programs, and educational initiatives, Lahanti has successfully increased community involvement. Villagers now actively participate, voicing concerns about issues like access to clean water and government schemes, such as old age pensions, widow pensions, and Public Distribution System (PDS) benefits. These concerns are brought to the Gram Sabha, where they are discussed and addressed.

The impact of this active participation has been profound. Many benefits of government schemes have been realized due to the continuous engagement and vocal participation of villagers in the Gram Sabha. Lahanti's efforts have empowered the Gram Sabha, transforming it into a vibrant hub of democratic power and activity within the village.

The underlying philosophy guiding Lahanti's efforts is that villagers should come together to deliberate on matters concerning their community and make decisions as a united body. This collective decision-making process is fundamental to the concept of Gram Sabha, ensuring that governance is inclusive and democratic. Today, Panchayat's decisions in these villages are subject to approval by the Gram Sabha, highlighting its pivotal role in the governance structure.

Through ongoing engagement, Lahanti has helped create a more participatory and democratic local governance system, empowering villagers to shape the future of their communities.

Community Meeting

Every month, Lahanti conducts community meetings at the village level in six panchayats of the Kathikund block to unite people, facilitate discussions, and drive collective action. These meetings serve multiple purposes: educating communities, addressing questions, discussing village issues and their solutions, sharing information about schemes and entitlements, making decisions, and raising awareness about citizens' rights. By bringing villagers together regularly, Lahanti fosters a sense of community, encourages active participation, and empowers individuals to take charge of their local governance. These meetings are instrumental in building a more informed, cohesive, and proactive community, ensuring that everyone has a voice in shaping the future of their village.

Women Collective/ SHG Meeting

Lahanti is dedicated to empowering women, enabling them to raise voice for their rights, access government schemes, and achieve self-reliance. Women collective meetings are held in various villages, focusing on critical issues such as safe migration, women's rights, human trafficking, and child marriage. During these meetings, discussions are held on the laws related to safe migration and the necessary precautions to ensure safety. This education helps village women understand their rights to move freely and access the available government facilities in their area.

Mahila Sabha meetings are also encouraged before Gram Sabha sessions. In these meetings, women gather to discuss the problems they face in their daily lives, such as water shortages, electricity issues, inadequate toilet and community bathroom facilities, and the lack of street lighting. These discussions provide a platform for women to voice their concerns collectively. They then bring these issues to the Gram Sabha, raise their voice for solutions and ensuring their voices are heard in the broader decision-making process.

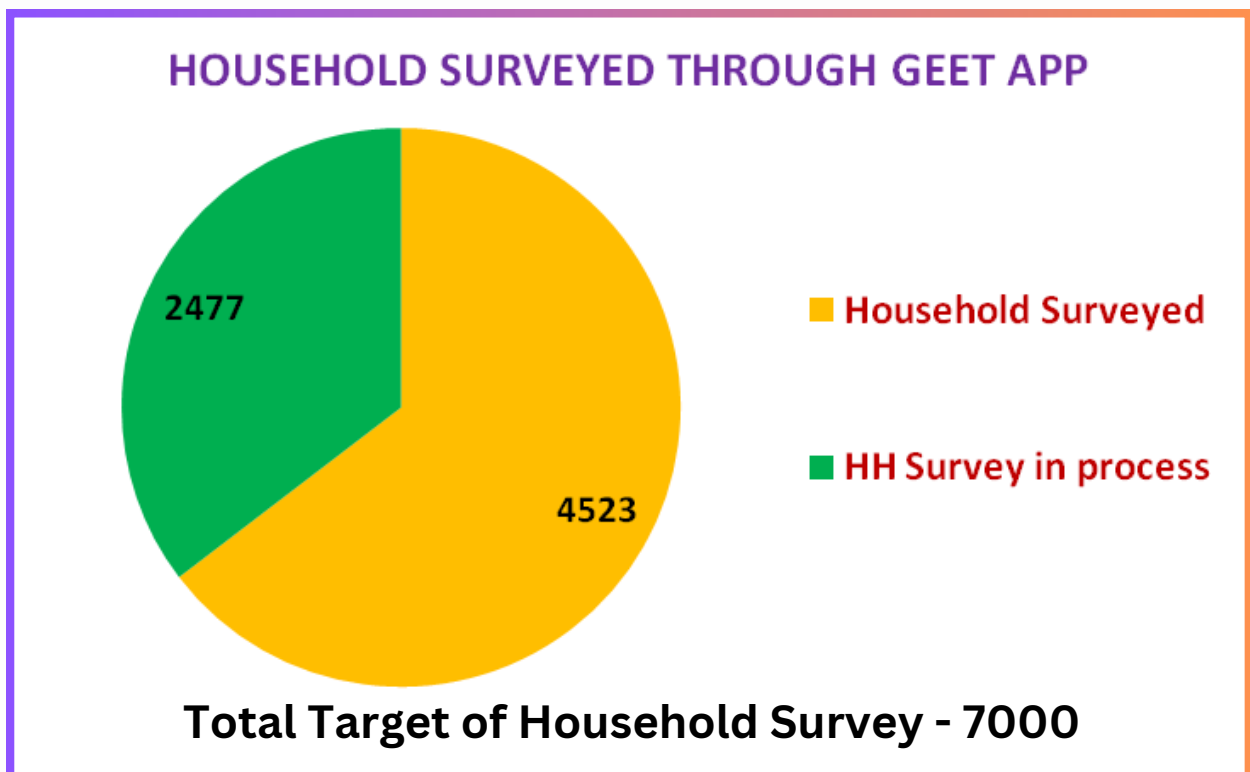

By facilitating these meetings, Lahanti fosters a supportive environment where women are informed, empowered, and proactive in seeking improvements for their communities. The organization's efforts are instrumental in building a more equitable society where women can actively participate in local governance and community development. Through continuous engagement and education, Lahanti helps women become self-reliant and capable of leading their villages toward a better future.

Geet App Survey

Lahanti has initiated a survey using the Geet App to assess the reach and impact of government schemes in the community. This survey aims to gather comprehensive data on the accessibility and effectiveness of various government programs. By leveraging the Geet App's digital capabilities, Lahanti can efficiently collect real-time information from a wide range of respondents, ensuring a thorough understanding of how well these schemes are serving the community. The data collected will help identify gaps in scheme implementation and highlight areas where improvements are needed. This initiative is part of Lahanti's broader effort to enhance transparency, accountability, and responsiveness in the delivery of government services, ultimately ensuring that all eligible individuals benefit from the programs designed to support them. Through the Geet App, a survey of 4,523 households has been completed across 6 panchayats of Kathikund Block .

Achievement

Gram Sabha Initiative

In a significant Gram Sabha initiative, villagers have engaged in discussions to address their village's needs and undertake various development projects. These include the construction of an earthen check dam, cleaning of ponds, tree plantation, sanitation around the water tower (Jal Minar), well cleaning, and widening of unpaved roads. These collective efforts have not only addressed essential infrastructure needs but have also strengthened the empowerment of the Gram Sabha. By actively participating in these projects, the community has demonstrated its commitment to improving local conditions and enhancing the effectiveness of the Gram Sabha as a central pillar of village governance.

Gram Sabha Sachivalay establishment

The establishment of Gram Sabha Sachivalay have been done to systematically manage all documents related to the Gram Sabha. The responsibility of maintaining the Gram Sabha Sachivalay lies with the Gram Pradhan (village head). In the Khatikund block, the Gram Sabha Sachivalay has been set up in 50 locations across 111 villages within 6 targeted Panchayats.

Promotion of Culture

To promote culture, efforts are being made in the six panchayats of Kathikund block—Pipra, Bichhiya Pahadi, Asanpahadi, Jhikra, Bartala, and Teliachak Bazaar. The initiative focuses on creating a cadre through traditional storytelling, street plays, and wall writings to raise awareness in the villages. This approach aims to help the communities preserve and cherish their cultural heritage. By engaging locals in these cultural practices, the Organization seeks to foster a deeper appreciation and understanding of their traditions, ensuring that their unique cultural identity is sustained and celebrated .

CFR and IFR Claims by Gram Sabha

In Dumka District, the Gram Sabha has made significant progress in utilizing the CFR (Community Forest Rights) and IFR (Individual Forest Rights) frameworks to enhance local governance and community rights. 18 CFR and 146 IFR claims have been submitted, with an additional 25 CFR claims currently in process. This substantial achievement underscores the dedication and efforts of Lahanti, whose contributions have been pivotal in this initiative.

Lahanti's involvement has been instrumental in facilitating the submission and processing of these claims, ensuring that the rights of the local communities are recognized and upheld. Through their support and guidance, the Gram Sabha has been able to navigate the complex procedures associated with CFR and IFR claims effectively.

The successful submission of these claims represents a significant step towards empowering local communities, granting them greater control over their forest resources, and reinforcing their rights. Lahanti's role in this process highlights the impact of dedicated leadership and community support in advancing equitable and sustainable development. Their contribution has not only accelerated the claims process but also strengthened the overall framework for community engagement and forest management in the district.

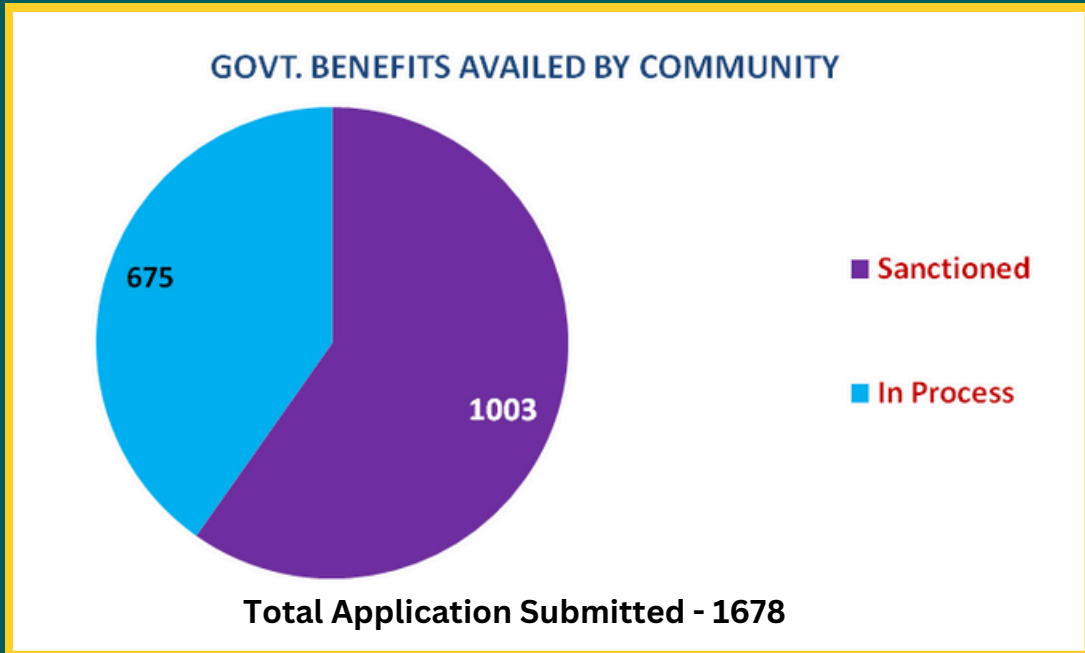

Social Security Scheme

Lahanti has played a significant role in empowering the Gram Sabha, encouraging its members to actively participate and take advantage of government schemes. This empowerment has led to a more informed and engaged community that is now effectively utilizing these schemes.

A key aspect of this process is Mahila Sabha before Gram Sabha where the women of the village first gather to discuss their issues and concerns. This platform allows them to voice their thoughts freely and without hesitation. After thorough discussion within the Mahila Sabha, the women bring their concerns and ideas to the Gram Sabha with greater confidence and strength.

This structured approach not only ensures that the women's voices are heard but also strengthens the overall decision-making process of the Gram Sabha. As a result, the community is better able to advocate for their rights and access the benefits of various government programs, leading to improved socio-economic conditions in the village.

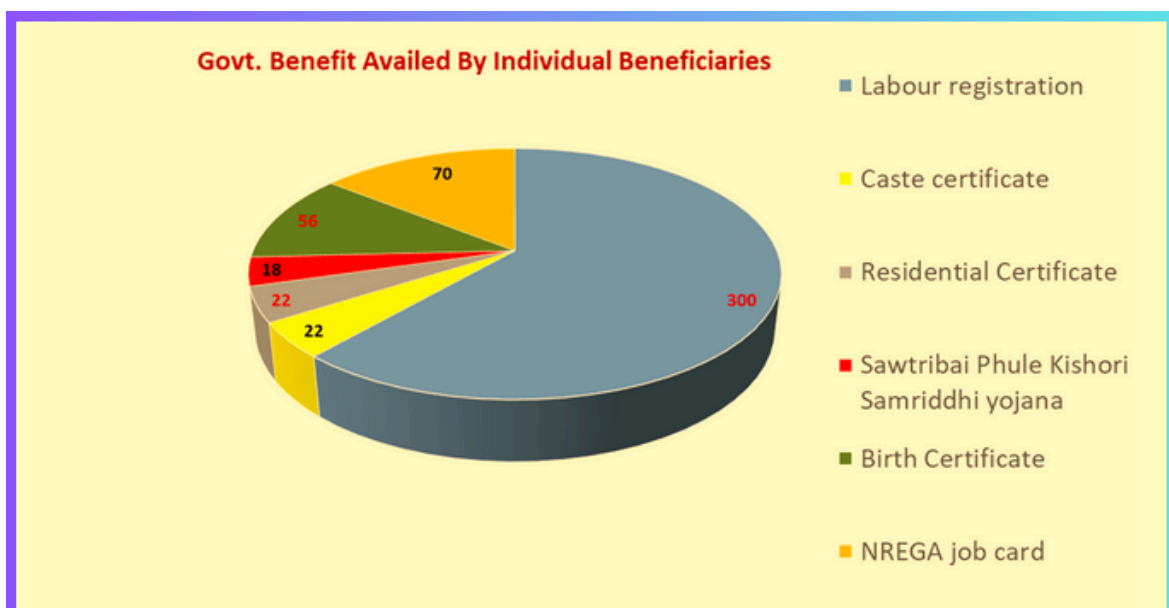

Empowering Community Leaders

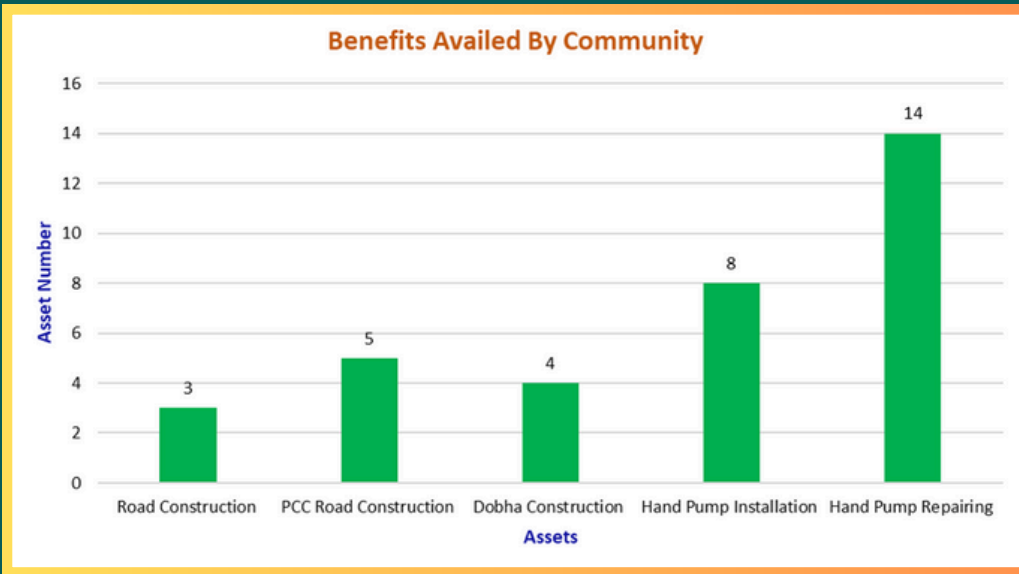

Despite the implementation of policies and laws designed to integrate marginalized communities into the mainstream and the availability of numerous government schemes, many within these communities remain unaware of their benefits. Lahanti is addressing this gap by creating a platform for community leaders, empowering them to facilitate the implementation of existing policies and improve access to government rights.

Lahanti works with 1 CCFF, comprising 60 community leaders from three panchayats in the Kathikund block of Dumka district. A series of capacity-building trainings has been provided to these leaders, including traditional leaders, PRI members, and youth cadres. These trainings focus on the rights of marginalized communities, government schemes, and the processes for accessing these benefits.

The trained community leaders now play a vital role in supporting their local communities. They conduct meetings to inform people about their rights and available government schemes. Additionally, they take the initiative to address both individual and community-level issues, working to resolve problems and ensure that their communities benefit from government entitlements.

Lahanti's objective is to ensure that marginalized communities have proper access to their rights and government entitlements. By cultivating leadership from within these communities, Lahanti aims to foster self-reliance and initiative, enabling community members to lead efforts to bring their peers into the mainstream and advocate for their collective needs. This approach not only enhances awareness but also builds a strong foundation for sustainable community development.

Improvement of Infrastructure in Kadma Village: The Construction of the PCC Road in Manjhi Tola

Kadma village, located 15 kilometers from the KathiKund block, is home to approximately 1,400 residents divided into four hamlets. The village is a diverse community, comprising Santhal, Muslim, and Begoli populations. It features essential educational facilities, including a primary school, a middle school, and an Anganwadi nursery school.

As part of Lahanti's operational area, workers Binay Soren and Shantilata Murmu are actively engaged in addressing various social issues within the village.

In Manjhi Tola, which consists of 60 families, residents previously relied on a dirt path to reach the main road, as there was no paved access. During the rainy season, this path would deteriorate significantly, posing hazards for those traveling by bicycle and preventing children from attending school or the Anganwadi. Additionally, pregnant women faced difficulties, often having to walk considerable distances to catch transportation to health centers during critical times.

The residents of Manjhi Tola submitted an application to the Block Development Officer of Kathi Kund, requesting the construction of a PCC road to connect their neighborhood to the main road. Unfortunately, their appeal went unaddressed for an extended period.

To tackle this issue, Lahanti workers and community leaders organized a meeting with the villagers. Together, they decided to secure approval for the PCC road application during the Gram Sabha, with strong support from the Mukhiya and Gram Pradhan . The application was submitted to the block office, and community leaders diligently followed up on its status.

After six months, the application for the PCC road construction received approval, and materials were delivered to the site. However, no contractor initiated the construction work. Recognizing the urgency of the situation, community leaders stepped in and, with the villagers' support, began constructing the PCC road themselves. Eventually, the road was completed.

The new PCC road has effectively resolved transportation challenges for the residents of Manjhi Tola, significantly improving their accessibility. The villagers are overjoyed with this development and express their heartfelt gratitude to Lahanti and the community leaders for their unwavering support.

Livelihood

The main objective of Lahanti's livelihood program is to provide economically weak families with the necessary skills for employment and self-employment, aiming to reduce poverty and inequality. Through this initiative, the issue of migration can also be significantly mitigated once means of livelihood become available.

The targeted community of the program is the economically weaker section, with the organization's goal being to promote self-reliance and improve their lifestyle. To encourage income generation through traditional farming, Lahanti is providing economically weak farmers with skills in organic farming and vermicompost production, enabling them to develop farming as a business. The organization also aims to promote eco friendly farming practices.

With Lahanti's support, farmers are constructing polyhouses to produce tomatoes and chillies, while also preparing beds for vermicompost production. In this way, Lahanti is taking significant steps towards both economic development and environmental protection.

HIGHLIGHTS

- 75 farmers trained in Organic farming and Vermicompost production.
- 350 saplings of tomato and 350 saplings of chilli distributed among farmers.
- 75 farmers were provided with 20kg vermicompost per farmer.
- 1 polyhouse has been constructed in Sagbehri village.
- 8 vermicompost beds have been constructed in Sagbehri village.

Case Story

Transforming Lives through Sustainable Farming in Sagbehri Village

In Sagbehri village, situated in Dumka district, a remarkable transformation is taking place, through the dedicated efforts of Lahanti's livelihood program. This initiative has empowered local farmers with the skills and resources needed to embrace sustainable agricultural practices, significantly improving their livelihoods and fostering community resilience.

Seventy-five farmers in Sagbehri have been trained in organic farming and vermicompost production. This training equipped them with essential knowledge about sustainable practices that not only enhance crop yield but also contribute to environmental conservation. Farmers learned how to cultivate their land using natural methods, reducing reliance on chemical fertilizers and pesticides.

As part of the initiative, 350 saplings of tomatoes and 350 saplings of chilies were distributed among the trained farmers. This direct support has enabled them to diversify their crops and increase their income potential. With fresh, organic produce, the farmers can now access better markets and cater to the growing demand for healthy food.

To ensure that the farmers can utilize sustainable practices effectively, Lahanti provided each of the 75 farmers with 20 kg of vermicompost. This organic fertilizer is not only beneficial for the soil but also enhances the quality of the produce, leading to higher market prices. Farmers have reported improved soil health and increased productivity in their fields.

The construction of a polyhouse in Sagbehri village marks a significant milestone in the program. This structure allows for controlled cultivation, enabling farmers to grow crops year-round, irrespective of seasonal changes. The polyhouse will serve as a model for other farmers, showcasing the benefits of modern agricultural techniques.

Additionally, eight vermicompost beds have been constructed in the village, creating a sustainable cycle of composting that helps in managing waste and producing high-quality fertilizer. This initiative not only promotes organic farming but also fosters community engagement, as farmers collaborate to maintain the beds.

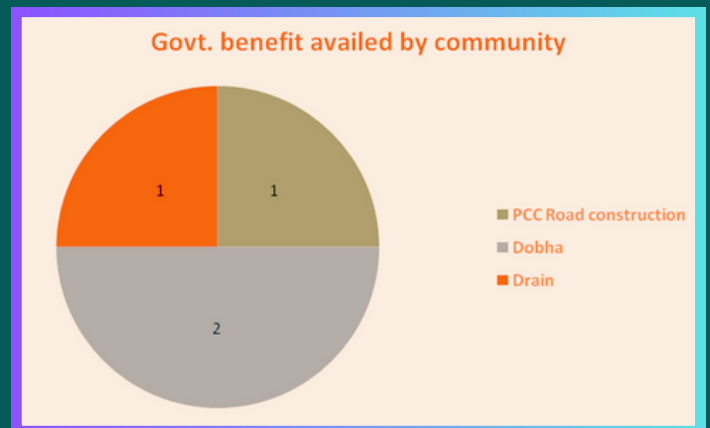

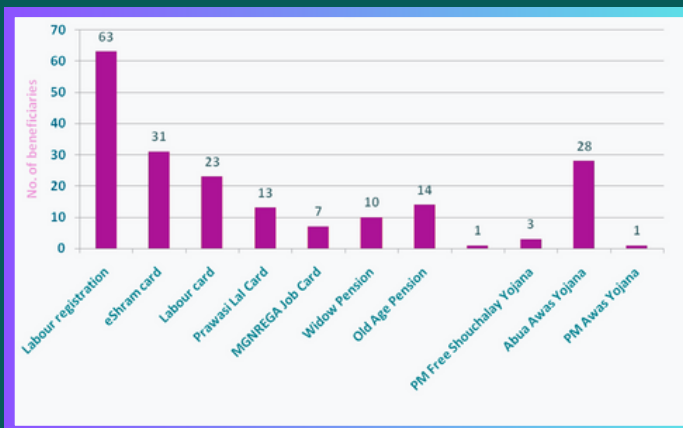

Safe Migration

Lahanti is collaborating with the "Jharkhand Anti-trafficking Network" at the state level to promote safe migration and secure mobility. Through its gender and inclusive rights approach, Lahanti seeks to popularize the concept of safe mobility and the importance of security and protection for migrants among both government and non-government stakeholders. This initiative aims to encourage these stakeholders to actively promote safe migration practices within their communities, thereby helping to prevent trafficking. Lahanti is dedicated to educating and protecting the uninformed, unaware, uneducated, and marginalized sections of society from engaging in unsafe migrations. Additionally, Lahanti aims to connect these individuals with government schemes and benefits to further support their well-being.

To promote safe migration, Lahanti has established migrant forums in all 10 villages of Panchayat Kadma. These forums, totaling 10, comprise 761 members, including 301 females and 460 males. At the Panchayat level, a dedicated migrant forum works in collaboration with Panchayati Raj Institution (PRI) representatives. Additionally, there are migrant forums at both the block and district levels that actively engage in advocacy efforts with local administration. Lahanti ensures that all migrant laborers practice safe migration and access government entitlements.

To raise awareness about safe migration, Lahanti has organized a series of training sessions, workshops, and awareness campaigns.

Information centre

The Information Center under the Safe Migration Program is dedicated to providing valuable assistance to villagers seeking information about safe migration and government schemes. Located at the project office in Lahanti, Kathikund, the center aims to address the needs of the community effectively and ensure access to essential resources. Operating schedule of the centre is every Monday and Thursday. Total 185 issues have been reported.

The center is actively working to resolve the issues related to government schemes. " Mahila Mandal , Sagbehri action to the problem solved the hardships of the villagers "

Village - Sagbehari, Panchayat - Rampur, Post - Kurwa, Police Station - Mufsil Dumka, District - Dumka is located in Jharkhand. This village is located at a distance of 7 kilometers from the block office and 8 kilometers from the district office. The total population of this village is approximately 986. There is a school and an Anganwadi center in this village. There is a small river in the village, there is no water in this river. Apart from the small river, there was no other water source in the village. Due to this, the villagers had to face a lot of problems of water for daily work, feeding animals and farming.

Gopin Hembram, 35 years old, is a resident of village Sagbehari. His family consists of his parents, his wife, four children and his brother. His family is big. To meet the expenses of his family, he used to migrate for work, but the income from this employment was not enough to run his large family. Due to this he had to face financial difficulties. His children studied in a government school. He and his wife wanted to enroll their children in a private school, but due to their weak financial condition, they were not able to do so.

A meeting of Mahila Mandal was organized in the village in which Lahanti worker Shantilata Murmu was also present. Gopin Hembram also participated in the meeting with his wife. Both of them shared their financial problems in the meeting.

Lahanti worker Shantilata Murmu advised all the didis in the meeting to grow vegetables like tomatoes, brinjals and chillies using organic fertilizers. Besides, insecticides were also distributed among all the didis. After this, all the didis started growing tomatoes, brinjals and chillies by planting kitchen gardens on their respective lands.

Gopin Hembram also bought tomato, brinjal and chilli plants from his labor income and started cultivating them with the help of organic fertilizers. His hard work paid off and the vegetable yield was very good. He sells these vegetables in the hutia. Due to which he earns Rs 600 to 700. Now he does not migrate outside for employment, but instead stays in the village and works as a laborer along with vegetable farming. He gets good income from labor and vegetables, due to which his financial condition has improved. He has enrolled his children in a private school.

To solve the water problem in the village, Mahila Mandal decided that a check dam will be constructed in the village. Due to the initiative of Mahila Mandal, a check dam was constructed in the village. There is water in this check dam throughout the year due to which the water problem of the villagers has been solved. Villagers use this water for farming. The income from farming helps the villagers a lot in supporting their families. Due to this, a change has been seen in the village that the percentage of migration in the village has reduced.

Climate Action

Climate change is one of the most pressing challenges facing our planet today. Lahanti play a crucial role in addressing climate change through their initiatives and programs. Lahanti engaged to conduct awareness the Community about climate change and sustainable practices. Lahanti has empowered rural communities to take ownership of forest management through participatory approaches, leading to improved forest governance and conservation outcomes as well as play a crucial role in creating awareness and promoting sustainable practices in rural communities to prevent deforestation and forest fires . Continued support and collaboration with Lahanti are essential to ensure the long-term sustainability of forest ecosystems and rural livelihoods.

Lahanti planted 11,500 fruit-bearing trees in the 6 panchayats of Kathikund block . This initiative aimed to promote environmental conservation and sustainable livelihoods. The planting of these trees not only helps in increasing the green cover but also provides the villagers with a source of income and nutritious fruits.

The project also raises awareness about the importance of trees in maintaining ecological balance and mitigating climate change. The fruit trees will not only benefit the current generation but also future generations by ensuring a healthy and sustainable environment. This initiative is a step towards creating a greener and more sustainable future for the village, enhancing biodiversity, and improving the overall quality of life for its residents.

Lahanti's approach extends beyond immediate project implementation, aiming to foster a network of collaborations and partnerships that amplify its impact on climate resilience and sustainable development. By working closely with various stakeholders, including government bodies, non-profit organizations, academic institutions, and local and international partners, Lahanti builds a multi-level support system for climate action.

Central to this approach is Lahanti's active engagement with Panchayati Raj Institutions (PRIs) and traditional village leaders, whose role in community mobilization and governance is crucial for promoting sustainable and climate-resilient practices. By incorporating both modern sustainable strategies and traditional ecological knowledge, Lahanti cultivates a holistic and inclusive model that respects local customs while addressing climate adaptation needs. This collaborative framework supports knowledge-sharing sessions, community workshops, and continuous dialogues that reinforce community ownership and adaptability to climate challenges.

Through these efforts, Lahanti aims to achieve not only immediate environmental outcomes but also long-term ecological and socio-economic resilience. This enduring commitment to sustainable development fosters stronger community ties and ensures that local ecosystems and livelihoods can thrive amidst changing environmental conditions.

Lahanti is actively engaged in addressing water scarcity and enhancing water access in tribal villages. Recognizing the critical role of water in sustainable development, Lahanti has undertaken various initiatives to improve drinking water availability and support groundwater recharge. Through efforts like cleaning and deepening ponds and wells, the organization is restoring traditional water sources and ensuring that communities have reliable access to potable water.

Additionally, Lahanti has introduced innovative water conservation methods by creating numerous potholes in strategic locations. These potholes help increase the ground's ability to absorb and store rainwater, which in turn aids in replenishing groundwater levels and mitigating water scarcity during drier seasons.

This integrated approach not only addresses immediate water needs but also contributes to long-term water sustainability by actively involving communities in resource management and promoting practices that enhance natural water retention. Through these efforts, Lahanti is helping to secure water access, support agricultural resilience, and strengthen environmental stewardship in tribal regions.
